Gentlemen of the Senate,

And of the House of Representatives.

In meeting you again for the discharge of our correlative duties, it is incumbent on me to recommend to your consideration such measures as are deemed important to the interests of our constituents and the welfare of the state.

When the importance of the undertaking; and the limited time which the last General Assembly occupied in revising the undigested materials which had previously composed the statute laws of the state are duly considered, it is to be expected that some of our statutory provisions should again require Legislative interference.—The existing provisions do not render the assessment and collection of taxes sufficiently certain to ensure the support of the public credit. The act for the assessing and collecting revenue should require that the assessment be made annually at an earlier period, which would afford more time for collection, and render the payment to the treasury more certain and less burthensome to the people.—The act requires prosecuting attorneys in the several counties to prosecute in all cases connected with the revenue—and that suits be instituted against delinquent Sheriffs, in the name of the Auditor although their bonds be given to the governor and his successors in office, yet it has been doubted whether suits thus instituted could be sustained. This mode of coercing payments from delinquent sheriffs is objectionable on account of the frequent changes made by the courts of their prosecuting attorneys, with other co-operating causes of which the Auditor whose duty it is to direct the institution of revenue suits, being unimformed produces procrastinations unavoidable as they are injurious to the revenue.

The better to enforce the payments of the revenue of the state, on the part of those charged with collections it is recommended that all suits connected therewith be instituted in the Harrison circuit-court, and that the appointment of an Attorney General be authorized by law, whose duty it shall be to prosecute thereon and in the Supreme court when the state may be a party—and such other duties as shall be enjoined by law—with such provision for his services as may be deemed adequate and proper.

At present there is no law officer of whom it can be required as a duty to afford legal advice to either of the Executive officers of the state although questions must arise, connected with the revenue as well as other subjects requiring legal abilities to decide.

To provide ways and means for the support of government for the current year will claim your attention, and the reports with which you will be furnished by the Auditor and Treasurer will afford a correct view of the finances of the state.

It is believed that a valuable Salt spring is known to be within the limits of the late purchase of Indian lands, which if ratified by the Treaty making power of the United States, and the lands allowed for the use of such Saline could be speedily set apart, a revenue would the sooner be derived from that source; while the monopolized article of Salt would be furnished at a much cheaper rate to a great portion of our citizens.

The provision of the act organizing the circuit courts, that requires all pleas that deny the cause of action when founded on a written instrument; to be supported by an oath or affirmation, presents inducements to commit perjury, and is calculated to add unnecessarily to the expence of the suitors.—The act subjecting real and personal estates to execution, has left to uncertainty what disposition shall be made of real property which after being exposed to sale under execution for the term of seven years fails to satisfy the demands against it, although a jury under the authority of this statute has determined otherwise. It is believed likewise this act contemplated that the mansion of a debtor should be last taken in execution; and not prior to the expiration of one year after judgement, though from its phraseology the construction is rendered extremely doubtful.

Nearly all the statutes which were in force prior to the last session of the General Assembly have been repealed, but there is no provision that such suits and prosecutions as has been instituted under the repealed statutes should be kept alive and prosecuted to final judgement: this defect unless remedied, may in some instances tend to prejudice individual rights and lead to the impunity of crime.—There are also suits in chancery in which the presiding Judges of the circuits have been interested as counsel, and will not progress to trial until the Supreme court is vested with original jurisdiction in such cases and until the mode of transferring those suits from the circuit courts shall be prescribed by law.—The constitution has provided that no act of the General Assembly shall be in force until it shall be published in print, unless in cases of emergency—This provision is too indefinite in its character, and requires Legislative aid, either by a general act or a special clause in each, prescribing a certain period sufficiently distant to ensure the promulgation of the laws from which their operation shall commence.

The humane principles of our government forbid the idea that any unnecessary punishment or rigor should be inflicted on those whom misfortune or crime have subjected to imprisonment notwithstanding the situation of many of our prisons are calculated to invite disease upon limited confinement therein and to inflict punishment before trial. The internal improvement of the state forms a subject of the greatest importance and deserves the most serious attention.—Roads and Canals are calculated to afford facilities to the commercial transactions connected with the exports and imports of the country by lessening the expences and time attendant, as well on the transportation of the bulky articles which compose our exports as on the importation of articles the growth and manufactures of Foreign countries, which luxury and habit have rendered too common and almost indispensable to our consumption. They enhance the value of the soil by affording to the agriculturalist the means of deriving greater gain from its cultivation, with an equal proportion of labor, thereby presenting stronger inducements to industry and enterprize, and at the same time by various excitements, invite to a more general intercourse between the citizens; which never fails, in a great measure to remove the jealousies of local interest, and the embittered violence of political feuds, which, too often produce the most undignified results to our Republican institutions, and secretly destroy, some of the greatest blessings which social intercourse is calculated to afford.

The success which has attended the exertions of the Jeffersonville Ohio Canal Company, affords the flattering prospect of a speedy commencement upon the great object for which the corporation was created, and presents still stronger claims upon the General Assembly to aid its ultimate execution.

It is submitted to your consideration whether the township of land generally known by the name of the "French Lick," which was reserved and vested in the state for the use of a Saline, and which is admitted to be of no importance for the manufacture of Salt, ought not with the assent of Congress to be disposed of, and the funds arising therefrom, under the direction of the Legislature to be vested in Canal stock in behalf of the state.

With the three per cent fund appropriated by an act of Congress, it is in your power to lay the foundation of a system of internal improvement co-extensive with the state, which if managed with economy and a due regard to the objects for which it was intended, will progressively effect the grand purpose without exhausting the means of its progress until it shall have been fully accomplished.

Until a site for the seat of Government shall be established which will be considered as permanent from which as a centre, substantial leading roads may be made, to the important points on the limits of the state, the expenditure of this fund would be disbursed to purposes but limitedly advantageous if not ultimately useless — This fund if it were invested in an interest bearing stock, together with its Semianual dividends would enable the state after the lapse of a few years to appropriate thirty thousand annually for the making roads and Canals, without materially affecting its resources; and the experience afforded from the policy of an adjoining state furnishes ample proof of the impropriety of making any disposition of this fund other than such as will accomplish improvements of a durable character. This fund as the subject of a general trust has been committed to your care under a solemn compact between the General Government and this state; with no other limitation, than that it shall be applied to the use of making roads, and Canals within the latter, without any expression with regard to the time and manner of its application, these being left to your discretion as the trustee, no good reason can be assigned why Congress might not countenance such measures not inconsistent with the trust, as you may deem best calculated to further the interest of the state, for whose benefit it was originally designed. Such a disposition of the fund would enable the state within a few years to commence upon a system of Internal improvement while the intermediate time would greatly enlarge the means of its execution, the number of laborers would be multiplied, the price of labor rendered more reasonable, and if invested in the authorized stock of the state—would aid in supporting a circulating medium so necessary to give impulse to our industry and enterprize, the want of which is seriously felt by almost every description of our citizens, the products of our soil which form the basis of our public and private wealth are unavoidably disposed of for a depreciated medium upon which when applied to the payment of a debt due to the United States, a loss must be sustained, from five to ten per cent, and in this indirect but certain mode, the hard earnings of the laborious and farming interest of the country is most exorbitantly taxed by a mere regulation adopted to the interests of the stockholders of the National bank, aided with the power from the treasury department of preventing all other paper from being received in payments to the United States. The power which this bank exercises over the payments to the United States treasury, has greatly involved those, who have become public debtors for lands purchased, under the general belief, that the paper of solvent banks, would continue to be accepted in discharge of such demands against them. But the operations of this institution, prove its intention of gradually destroying the reputation of the state institutions, disabling thereby those who are indebted to the United States to meet their payments in due time to avoid a heavy interest or forfeiture, which, must result in immense sacrifices on their part, and commensurate opportunities for speculation for those who can command funds which are receivable, unless Congress shall interfere in their behalf.

With an entire confidence, that these and such other subjects as your superior wisdom may suggest, connected with our inestimable religious & political privileges, will meet your consideration, with that moderation and concert so essential to the important trust committed to your charge, you have the assurance of my co operation in every object, calculated to promote the prosperity of the state and the happiness of its citizens.
